

From Falmouth.

[Special Dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer.]

NEAR FALMOUTH, Va., Dec. 5.—General Sykes' Division was reviewed by General Hooker yesterday, at noon.

The enemy broke ground, yesterday, in the rear of their old works, for the purpose of erecting new works. It appears as though they had abandoned some of their works and again re-occupied them, especially the redoubts on their left. All day they were busy in strengthening their batteries. Cavalry and infantry were easily discernible, drilling in the rear of the rifle pits.

Several of the Eighth Pennsylvania Cavalry have been captured by the Confederates down in the vicinity of Front Royal.

Two officers came up the Rappahannock last evening, all the way from Port Conway, in an open batteau or yawl. All the little villages and points of interest along the Confederate sides of the river are picketed.

A day or two will give you some news, I think, of importance.

From Burnside's Army.

HD. QRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, }
NEAR FALMOUTH, Va., Dec. 3. }

General Burnside has returned from Washington, and grievously disappointed the Mawhorns here, who have been swearing that "his head would be off next."

What may have transpired in the private interview between the Commanding General and the authorities at Washington—what may have been demanded and what promised on the one side and the other—is, of course, not a matter for present discussion. This much, however, I can freely say: The result of the interview seems to have been entirely satisfactory to General Burnside. He will now be "let alone"—allowed to follow out his own plans, in his own time and way, free from Bureaueratic dictation at Washington, and confident that he will have from the Government all the assistance he asks for. * * *

Dismiss with contempt all the reports you hear of winter quarters here. They are nonsense. We are to have an active, vigorous winter campaign against Richmond.

THE CRAFTURD CASE.—This was an action of ejectment brought by George T. Crafturd, and others, children of Thomas B. Crafturd, on the ground of being his next of kin. The defendant was Dr. R. S. Blackburn, the administrator of Dr. Crafturd's personal estate, who took possession of the realty after his death. The question involved was whether Thomas B. Crafturd was ever legally married to the mother of the plaintiffs. The action was brought in Prince George's county, Md., on the suggestion of the defendant (he being a citizen of Virginia) it was removed to the U. S. Circuit Court at Baltimore, where it had been on trial for two weeks up to Wednesday last, when it was concluded. The case was given to the Jury, who, in a short time, returned a sealed verdict, the Court having adjourned. It was opened on Wednesday morning, and proved to be a verdict for the plaintiffs—thus declaring the children of Thomas B. Crafturd to be the legal heirs of Dr. Crafturd. In the course of the trial several exceptions were taken by the defence to the ruling of the Court, and the points of law so raised will be adjudicated hereafter in the Supreme Court.—Prince Georgian.

AUG. B. SMITH, Superintendent.

The report of Secretary Chase was transmitted to Congress to-day. He states that the aggregate receipts for the fiscal year 1862, from all sources, including the balance of $2,257,065.80 in the Treasury from the preceding year were $583,885,247.06, and the aggregate expenditures, $570,841,700.25.

He makes the total of receipts actual and anticipated for the fiscal year under existing laws $511,646,259.96, and the total expenditures for all purposes $988,558,777.63. There are yet to be provided for the current year by the action of Congress $276,912,517.66.

The whole amount to be provided by Congress beyond resources available under existing laws may, upon the supposition of the continuance of the war, be stated as follows:

For the fiscal year 1863.....	$276,912,517 66
For the fiscal year 1864.....	622,388,183 56

Making an aggregate of.....$899,300,701 22

He recommends the issue of the United States notes adapted to circulation as money, as the best mode of providing, with any tolerable degree of promptitude, for the wants of the army and navy, and the necessities of other branches of the public service, and banking associations for this purpose, to be organized under national legislation, but to be entirely voluntary, is recommended, and the organization proposed, if sanctioned by Congress, would require, within a very few years, for deposit as security, for circulation, bonds of the United States to an amount not less than $250,000,000. The Secretary does not propose to interfere with the Independent Treasury, and his general views may thus be briefly summed up.

He recommends that whenever amounts may be needed beyond the sums supplied by revenue and through other indicated modes be obtained by loans, without increasing the issue of United States notes beyond the amount fixed by law, unless a clear public exigency shall demand it. He recommends, also, the organization of banking associations for the improvement of the public credit and for the supply to the people of a safe and uniform currency. And he recommends no change in the law providing for the negotiation of bonds, except the necessary increase of amount and the repeal of the absolute restriction to market value and of the clauses authorizing convertibility at will.
